READY TO FIGHT ON AUTOMOBILE TAXES

Republicans and Democrats Are Prepared to Make Trouble On Proposed Increases.

If the Administration seriously at tempts to force Congress to impose on the public taxes on automobiles and gasolene it will have trouble on its hands. Since the President read his message to Congress, the mutterings on these proposed taxes have been growing more and more audible. Not only are the Republicans showing signs of bitter opposition to taxing of gasolene and automobiles, but many of the Democrats are not concealing their hostility. It is not yet clear whether the effort will be made to bind the Democrats in the House by caucus rule to support the revenue measure when it comes forth from the Ways and Means Committee. But it is quite clear that if such an attempt is made there will be imminent danger of breaking up the caucus. Some of the Democrats already are saying among themselves that they will not stand for caucus domination in the matter of how the additional revenue to meet the needs of pre-parellness shall be raised.

The proposed taxes on pig iron and on mariufactures of steel will also meet opposition. But the indications are they will not find the general opposition which is siready manifested against the wasolene and automobile taxes.

With respect to the tax proposed for manufactures of steel, its opponents are saying it is a fax on production, and that this policy is a great mistake. It might be supposed the proposed taxes on gasolene and automobiles would find little opposition from the agricultural States and districts. But this is not the case. On the contrary, with many farmers owning automobiles with many farmers owning automobiles and using gasolene not alone for automobiles, but for gasolene engines for all manner of farm purposes, there is strong opposition from many members representing agricultural parts of "the country.

One of the strong opponents of the strong automobile toyers in Congasolene and automobile taxes is Congressman Steele of lowa, the only Democratic member from that State. He said such taxes would be a hardship to his district, and that a gasolene tax would hit every farmer who owned an automobile or used a gasolene engine for power of

The commission recommends also, the repeal of the bill approved March 3, 1905, "for the relief of street car motormen." The law names specific dates within which cars without vestibules may not be operated. During certain seasons the weather is such, the commission states, that open cars can be operated without injury to the health of the motormen and with considerable benefit to the public, and since other matters affecting street railway operations are controlled by regulations of the commission, it appears that the matter of car vestibules also should be regulated.

Post Card Buying.

One notable feature of the purchases this year is the large number of picture post cards being bought. Those who wish only "to remember" friends are buying these artistic and inexpensive cards, rather than more costly and less attractive gifts.

The post cards seen this year have undergone a transformation. Only a few years past the post cards sent out were comparatively few, but this year there is a flood of artistic ones on the market, many of them designed by well-known illustrators, and many others containing reproductions of well-known art works. Hannis Taylor Says Former U. S. Solicitor's Arbitration Award Met Contempt.

Hannis Taylor, administrator of the estate of Stanhope Prevost, has made answer to the claim of Chandler F Anderson, formerly solicitor to the State Department, for $1,000 for services rendered as a member of an arbitration board named to determine a sum du from the estate of George G. Hobson to the Prevest estate.

Mr. Taylor questioned the right of the probate court to hear Anderson's com-probate court to hear Anderson's complaint, and asked for a dismissal of the petition on the grounds that Anderson's services consisted of "an innocuous and platonic utterence in the form of a recommendation without any legal validity whatever and was trested with contempt by the administrator of the Hobson estate."

Mr. Anderson, Robert Lausing, now Secretary of State, and William L. Chambers served on the arbitration board. In Mr. Taylor's answer, the assertion is made that the claim of the Prevost estate against the Hobson estate was finally compromised for the Hobson estate which the administrator for the Hobson estate declared if the the Hobson estate declared if the

> How the Remedy for Catarra Was Discovered.

THIS terrible disease has raged unchecked for years simply because symptoms have been treated while the vicious germs that cause the trouble have been left to circulate in the blood, and bring the disease back as fast as local treatments could relieve it. C. E. Gauss, who experimented for years on a treatment for Catarrh, found that after perfecting a balm that relieved the nose and throat troubles quickly, he could not prevent the trouble beginning all over again. On test cases, he could

Careful experiments and investigations have shown that as the troubles were expelled from the nose and throat, the real cause of the disease was overlooked and in a short time the Catarrh would return stronge than ever. Mr. Gauss has gone way ahead of the ordinary methods of treatment and has provided a remedy that
